Customer Reviews

Running a specialised museum in regional Australia, we use books and online resources as our main source of information and inspiration. Museum's 101 gave us both. It is divided into small, easy to read chunks of valuable information. Being written by an author on the other side of the world we wondered if it would have enough relevance to us, but our Custodian has been a subscriber to Mark's blog for some years now and found it valuable, so we gave it a go. We find it practical, very readable and very useful. We now recommend this book to our colleagues, and would also highly recommend it to anyone interested in the Museum sector.

Fantastic simple language to approach to what a specialist make so challenging. Very thorough and obviously based on timely experience. Filled with resources, suggestions, templates, and links

This book is literally THE thing I've been searching for for years! If you are thinking about starting a Museum, buy this book immediately.

Wanted this to be so much better. Thought it might be perfect for a basic museum studies class, but found other/older books more relevant.
